The screenshot shows the eHospital website homepage. At the top right, it displays '162 Days' and '16 Hours TO GO LIVE'. A search bar is located below the logo. The navigation menu includes: Home, What is eHospital?, My eHospital, Projects, Training, Readiness & support, News & events, and Ask Ernie! A large banner features a smiling child in a hospital bed with the text: 'eHospital - our largest ever investment in improving healthcare quality'. To the right, a 'Readiness' section states: 'We must be Ready for go live in all specialities - here's how...' and 'my eHospital Get personal by choosing your 'my eHospital'...'. Below this are sections for 'Latest news & features' (listing 'EPR Showcase - a real celebration' on 25 October and 'Papworth's move and eHospital'), 'Upcoming events' (listing 'Go Live Readiness Event' on 11th June 2014, 'Go Live Readiness Event' on 15th July 2014, and 'Super User training' from 11th August 2014 to 22nd August), and 'Tweets' (featuring a tweet from Katie Webb @katiewebb and a tweet from David Wherrett).

The screenshot shows the 'My eHospital' landing page. It features a grid of images representing different user groups, each with a caption: 'For patients, families and carers', 'For doctors', 'For nursing', 'For allied health professionals', 'For healthcare scientists', 'For researchers', 'For support staff', 'For management and admin', and 'For our healthcare partners'. The page title is 'My eHospital' and the sub-header reads: 'Whether you are a patient, a member of staff or a healthcare partner, find out what eHospital will mean for you by choosing your My eHospital:'.
